At Market Again

Last summer Stone Hill partnered up with Dynamic Design Landscaping to display some products including fountains, statues, benches, and more, down at the Minneapolis Farmers Market. Due to the positive response we received we are again featuring a variety of our stone creations. This will make it easier for you to check out some of our products while getting ideas for your yard. The display is located at the far end of the market grounds near the Annex Building. Stop by and get ideas on how to utilize stone and water features to transform your yard into an additional out door living space.
